	THE steadfast coursing of the stars,
	The waves that ripple to the shore,
	The vigorous trees which year by year
	Spread upwards more and more ;
	The jewel forming in the mine,
	The snow that falls so soft and light,

The rising and the setting sun,
The growing glooms of night,
All natural things both live and move
In natural peace that is their own;

4. Consonance and Assonance

Consonance : Repetition of consonant sounds within a word, phrase or a short sentence. For example : pitter-patter/ chuckle-fickle/ sick-duck/ Betty bought some bitter butter

Assonance : Repetition of vowel sounds within a word/ phrase/ sentence.

For example: Jack had a bag.

Men sell metal- kettle.

Let the engineer steer without fear.

(Note: Here, the focus is on pronunciation and not on the spellings of words.)

From the above poem pick out examples of consonance and of assonance within words/phrases.

A Thing of Beauty is a Joy For Ever

John Keats (1795-1821) an English poet was one of the most popular of all British Romantic Poets. His poems are characterised by imagery from nature, that appealed to one's senses.

The present poem is the first stanza of a longer poem 'Endymion' based on Greek Mythology.' The first line has become proverbial. The poem was first published in 1818.

A thing of beauty is a joy for ever:

Its loveliness increases; it will never

Pass into nothingness; but still will keep

A bower quiet for us, and a sleep

Full of sweet dreams, and health and quiet breathing.

Therefore, on every morrow, are we wreathing

A flowery band to bind us to the earth,

Spite of despondence, of the inhuman dearth

Of noble natures, of the gloomy days,

Of all the unhealthy and o'er-darkened ways

Made for our searching: yes, in spite of all,

Some shape of beauty moves away the pall

From our dark spirits. Such the sun, the moon,

Trees old, and young, sprouting a shady boon

For simple sheep; and such are daffodils

With the green world they live in; and clear rills

That for themselves a cooling covert make

'Gainst the hot season; the mid forest brake,

Rich with a sprinkling of fair musk-rose blooms:

And such too is the grandeur of the dooms

We have imagined for the mighty dead;

All lovely tales that we have heard or read:

An endless fountain of immortal drink

Pouring unto us from the heaven's brink.

bower: a pleasant shady place under trees or climbing plants

• morrow: the following day

wreathing: (here,) weaving with flowers

• spite of despondence: in spite of despoir

dearth : shortage

• pall: a sheet spread over the dead

boon : gift

• rills : streams

List the things of beauty mentioned in the poem.

 List the things that cause suffering and pain.

covert: (here,) shade

brake (Archaic): ferns

dooms: last day of existence known or displayed

brink: edge

Nor do we merely feel these essences

For one short hour; no, even as the trees

That whisper round a temple become soon

Dear as the temple's self, so does the moon,

The passion poesy, glories infinite,
Haunt us till they become a cheering light
Unto our souls, and bound to us so fast,
That, whether there be shine, or gloom o'ercast

They always must be with us, or we die.

- John Keats
